Innovating Preparedness by Leveraging SYNERGIES and Enhancing Results of Disaster Risk Management Projects

SYNERGIES is a European co-funded project (2023–2026) dedicated to fostering a culture of disaster preparedness. With a collaborative approach, we engage first and second responders, citizens, civil society organisations, research and education systems, authorities, and our focus revolves around five key preparedness needs:

Involvement in building preparedness

Education and trainings

Management of spontaneous volunteers

Communication with citizens

Sustainable solutions

Building on research stemming from previous EU-funded projects, SYNERGIES integrates findings and refines practices related to preparedness, and guides three real-life Preparedness Cases in La Réunion, Malta and Rotterdam.

La Réunion

Management of a cyclone risk within a context changing in terms of weather patterns and rapidly growing population

Malta

Earthquake response: Management and displacement of an unexpected group of residents and vulnerable groups

Rotterdam area

Flooding and cascading events exceeding the expected forecast
